

LOUISVILLE WINS.

THE DECIDING GAME TO TAKE PLACE TO-DAY.

Louisville Makes Fifteen Runs to Four by Columbus—The Trial of Beck, the Wife Murderer—The Work of the Courts—Theatre—The State—Other Items of Interest.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 17.—[Special.]—Columbus is not so happy to-night as she was the night before. In the contest to-day with the great Louisville, the Columbus boys received a terribly black eye. The Louisville put her best foot forward. Becker and Sullivan did the grand act, and were supported by admirable work in the field. The Stars went to the bat first and were retired in one, two, three, order. Louisville then took the willow, and through a series of errors by Columbus, succeeded in scoring four runs. This rather dashed on the crowd, but the Stars closed their half of the second inning with two runs to their credit. Columbus felt better at this when Louisville followed with two runs, on the second inning. The Stars and the spectators both lost courage, and victory was clearly in the hands of the Louisvilles. Columbus made only one run more in the game, and that was in the seventh inning. Louisville made two in the third, one in the fourth, one in the sixth, and five in the seventh, closing the game with a score of 15 to 4. Becker struck out only one of the Stars, but when they sent a ball to the field it was well handled. Shreve and Hamburg were the battery for Columbus and neither of them played with their usual brilliancy. Shreve, an amateur, did not disgrace himself, and seems likely to hit freely. He succeeded in making three of the Louisvilles saw the air, which was more than Becker did for Columbus. Every player in the Louisville team scored a run, and some of them as high as three. Kappel, Peckley and Lyons, were the only Columbus boys who crossed the home plate. The Stars made five errors during the game, and the Louisvilles four, which is evidence that the Louisvilles pounded Shreve heavily, and that Columbus 'got' but few safe hits. The Louisvilles did some fine playing, and earned about half of their runs, while Columbus earned only one. The general verdict is that the batteries did not, and Columbus is to let Becker pass as the champion pitcher, and another game will be played to-morrow afternoon.

Dooly and O'Neill arrived to-night and will be the battery for Columbus. Rebecus and Crotty will do the grand act for the Louisvilles.

The following is the score by innings:

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Stars	0	3	0	0	1	0	4
Louisvilles	2	2	1	0	1	5	10

They left the office by the front door, taking a shoe-knife belonging to Mr. Talbot, and cut out one of the front window glass panes. Foster & Kelly's store, but seemed to have been frightened away, as they did not enter the store. Nothing so far has been missed. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the deed.

RAUB SUPERIOR COURT.

An Effort to Get a Continuance for the Murderer, Beck.

CLAYTON, Ga., March 17.—[Special.]—The court convened here yesterday, Judge Estes presiding, and the following gentlemen of the bar are in attendance: Claud Estes, E. F. Findly and W. H. Marler, of Gainesville; Colonel C. D. Phillips, of Milledgeville; Colonel Pope Barrow, of Athens; Colonel Smith, of Atlanta; J. W. B. Good and Colonel Kinsley, of Cleveland; J. B. Jones, and Colonel Crane, of Gainsville; S. M. Smith, of Toccoa; J. H. Moore, of Waltonia, S. C.; D. N. Morris, of Clinton. The judge's charge to the grand jury was remarkable for its plainness and conciseness as to what was their duty. The circuit dockets were taken up, and the major part of the business gone through with to-day. The criminal court will be commenced, and all the minor cases are of small importance except the Beck trial.

Great interest is manifested already over its result. The grand jury will find a true bill against him to-day. The state is represented by Claud Estes, of Gainesville, and Colonel C. D. Phillips, of Milledgeville, in the absence of the solicitor-general. The defense is represented by Colonel Pope Barrow, of Athens, and E. F. Findly, of Gainesville, and humor has it that Judge Blackley, of Clarkesville, is also employed on the defense.

Beck's trial will be that of insanity. There will be a special effort on the part of the defense to postpone the trial, Colonel Pope Barrow having said last night that Beck was not ready for trial; that he had been confined away from Clayton in jail, and had not had an opportunity of getting his witnesses; that they were mostly witnesses residing outside of the county, which could not be summoned within a limit of time.

Hecker, a colored man, is also on trial, and his defense is that he was not guilty.

THE DUFFY PURE MALT WHISKY.

In calling the attention of the public to the purity and medicinal qualities of the DUFFY PURE MALT WHISKY, we do not fill our little pamphlet with testimonials from people unknown to the reader, but simply give the opinions of persons who stand high in the medical profession. We have scores of letters from people all over the land praising in the highest terms its purity and usefulness, and relating wonderful cures effected by the use of the DUFFY PURE MALT WHISKY, but that he has not time to copy. We have yet to find one article in the medical journals of the country, or in any of the medical books, that does not speak of the DUFFY MALT WHISKY as a medicinal purpose, usually from the establishment nearest to where they live. In nearly all cases they will get an article for which only not an enormous price charged, but the whisky is generally adulterated with Glycerine, Syrups and coloring matter, making it very injurious instead of beneficial. One of the greatest annoyances physicians have in their practice, and a difficulty which they have not up to this time been able to over come, is that of getting pure whisky for the sick room.

Physical Enervation caused by Overwork Produces Despondency and Lack of Energy.

Duffy's Malt Whisky Infuses New Life and Dispels Melancholy.

The purity and palatability of DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKY specially commend it to the public. Those who are tired and worn out from the mental strain of a busy day, it is an excellent stimulant. Mothers, whose systems have become weakened from the care and nursing of children, find it a great tonic in building up the system and promoting a healthy digestion. Consumptives and those troubled with Hemorrhage will find it very beneficial. It is a safe medicine, the fatal dose of fusel oil is stated by Rabatelli, the great chemist, to be 116 grains, or the quantity usually found in a gallon of whisky. The effects of a smaller quantity are to produce dizziness, headache, sense of falling and suffocation.

MALT IS THE BEST NERVE STRENGTHENER KNOWN TO THE PROFESSION.

THE BASIS OF DUFFY'S MALT WHISKY IS PURE BARLEY MALT.

Dr. W. R. Blythe, in his work on "Food and Poisons" (page 200) says:

"The smallest amount of fusel oil giving effect is three grains, and a whisky containing one and one-half grains per ounce is injurious to health. It is, therefore, not necessary to make any argument to show the great danger, we might add, of admiring whisky to the sick room of family not known to be absolutely pure and free from fusel oil. None qua person should administer whisky to the sick other than DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKY."

Those who are suffering from the effects of nervous prostration can be relieved by using Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky.

stored to Health and Vigor by Using Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky.

The following opinion of Messrs. Curran & Goler, the well-known druggists, Western New York, speaks volumes:

"GENTLEMEN—The broad difference of opinion existing among medical men as to the wisdom or propriety of employing alcoholic stimulants in disease can never be harmonized by any argument, and the only way to settle the question is to let the practice of the profession decide. All are agreed, however, that the pernicious effects of the worthless material labelled and sold as 'pure wines and liquors.' All are agreed, however, that whenever stimulants are employed, whether indicated or not, they should be of a character unquestioned by experience in the use of them, or by the most decided and legitimate apothecary business has given us a wide range of acquaintance with the wants of the profession and requirements of the sick in the selection of stimulants. Among many articles of liquor dispensed at our establishment during these years for medical use, we have never had any article which contained fusel oil or other noxious materials, in smooth or in rough form, and we can assure you that our whisky is absolutely pure and free from fusel oil. The whisky is smooth, round and delicate of flavor, making it alike acceptable to all ages and the most delicate stomachs. In typhus fever, dysentery, diarrhea and all low forms of disease the medical profession would think that whisky is invaluable and a great tonic, without any of the bad effects usually following the taking of spirituous refined."

The position of the Afghan question grows more complicated as the whole truth comes out. The arrangement about which Mr. Gladstone has turned out to be no arrangement at all; and Russia has thus far won her points, both in a diplomatic and military sense.

The Georgia press association meets to-day in Bainbridge. The CONSTITUTION has to come out at the old stand every day in the week, but its heart is in Bainbridge with the "boys," and the hope is that they will carry nothing away from the crescent city but pleasant recollections.

The trouble among the rascals has begun to委員會 Evans wanted to be asked to resign, with a letter of recommendation. The president has removed him, however, and this will be paraded as a want of courtesy to a truly great and good man." They will all get used to it after awhile.

Mr. PARNELL scored one of the greatest victories yesterday in the house of commons, when he called legislation to a halt, and insisted upon the government redeeming its pledges. With admirable firmness, he stated his case, while the maddened ministers could only squirm and submit to the recollection of the "uncrowned king of Ireland."

It looks as though the United States will be drawn into the Central American war. The active movements of the naval and diplomatic officials of the United States can hardly have any other result. The letter of Secretary Baird is determined in tone, and reads as though he would not be backed down by Barrios.

The reports of the six committees on the proposed commercial convention to the committee of thirty, made yesterday, show gratifying progress and almost assure the success of the enterprise. In one day it was impossible to see everybody—in many cases partners were to be consulted—persons called on were absent from the city—and various causes operated against the committees. In spite of this $2,000 of the $4,000 needed was raised in one day. The committees will canvas again to-day and report finally to the joint committee at 4½ o'clock this afternoon. They should be able to report every dollar raised and let the work for the convention begin at once.

GEORGIA AND TEXAS.

As the readers of THE CONSTITUTION know, our William Arp has been to Texas. He saw something he didn't like and others that he liked very well. He saw poor things and fat things, fertile land and land that blisters even under the winter sun. But, being a humorist and not a satirist, our William is inclined to paint what he saw in rather vivid colors, and his letters are calculated to leave the impression that Georgians can better themselves by going to Texas. All this comes of our William's good humor, for it was his purpose to leave no such impression. If he had the opportunity to-morrow he would not give ten acres of his Bartow county farm for the best farm in Texas, provided he was compelled to carry his family to that state and live there the rest of his life.

For the whole moral of his Texas letters is that there is hardly a spark of home-life in the agricultural regions of that state, so far as his observations extended. People live there, of course, and frequently they grow rich there, but what amount of riches can compensate for the lack of home-life? Poverty is generally understood to imply a lack of money and the comforts that money brings, but there is no more deplorable condition of poverty than the lack of those qualities that are a part of the farmer's home-life.

There is a great deal of poverty in Georgia, comparatively speaking, but there is no such poverty as that. Many of our farmers may be in debt, and a great many others may be struggling against unfavorable conditions of one sort and another, but they have never experienced the hardships that must attend those who have no home-life. In Georgia, thank heaven! the more primitive the life the more home-like it is—the more nearly it conforms to the hallowed ideals of the good old times. The land may be old, but it is consecrated by associations that never grow old, and it has in it that subtle essence of vitality which, under the improved methods of farming, renders it as productive and as valuable as the lands of Texas.

There is more in the man than there is in the land; there is more in the man than there is in any of the conditions that surround him. The successful man is always superior to his environment. He rises, not by force of circumstances, but by overcomes and taking advantage of circumstances. Our William tells of a man who was hauling wood for a living in Floyd county some years ago, but who has gone to Texas and is getting rich. This man has simply taken advantage of his surroundings in Texas as he would have taken advantage of them here. Hundreds and thousands of men have grown rich in Georgia from the humblest beginning, and men will continue to grow rich as long as the state exists. There are successful men in Georgia as there are in every other state. The circumstances of life are not to be blamed for the development of poverty, the field is as certain as in any other state.

THE SPURTING BLOOD WHICH FOLLOWED A MURDEROUS KNIFE THRUST.

Ben McGraw Murders Ben Hendon in Selma, Alabama—The Fatal Quarrel Over a Pair of Pants—Intense Excitement Prevailing Over the Murder Among the Citizens.

SELMA, Ala., March 17.—[Special]—Giles McGraw, murdered Ben Hendon in this city, this morning. Both were colored employes at the Central City oil mills. Hendon had purchased a pair of pants from McGraw, and as they did not fit, decided to return them.

THE FATAL KNIFE THRUST.

McGraw demanded amount of money agreed upon. Hendon good naturedly declined to pay the price, saying that he did not need the pants, and would return them. Having said this much, he turned to walk away, when McGraw, having drawn a knife, reached over his shoulder and inflicted the fatal stab. The wound extended two inches across the right side of the victim's neck.

THE VICTIM FALLEN DEAD.

The jugular vein and main artery were both completely severed. The blood poured in a great gushy stream and in a few brief moments nothing remained of Ben Hendon save a pulseless corpse with life all fled from it.

THE CRIMINAL ARREST.

McGraw made a dash for the door to effect an escape, but was overtaken by some other colored employes, captured and held until the police officers could reach the scene. The other negroes were very much enraged at the bloody deed, and would have killed the slayer of Ben Hendon, but for timely interference of the officers. The dead man was a peaceable character, and a favorite with his employer. McGraw is a bad, worthless negro. He was lodged in the city prison to await trial and punishment so well deserved.

FARMING IN CAROLINA.

THE DEPENDENCY AMONG THE FARMERS—THE WORK OF THE PRESENT YEAR.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 17.—[Special]—During the past week much work has been done on the farms near this city. Taking prompt advantage of the balmy weather, the planters have labored energetically to retrieve as far as possible the losses entailed on account of the lagging spring and tenacious winter. Farming has been greatly retarded by the general cold weather, and the ground has not been put into good a condition as it usually is at this time of the year. There seems to be a determination on the part of the tillers of the soil to exert themselves to an extraordinary degree so as to make up for lost time. They intend to put in some hasty work. They will, if continuous labor can be had, force the earth to yield a plentiful harvest as a compensation for the beggarly returns of the past two years. Such husbandmen as have a determination on the part of the tillers of the soil to exert themselves to an extraordinary degree so as to make up for lost time. They intend to put in some hasty work. MERIT
SEVERELY TESTED.

There is no article of Southern production the merits of which have been more rigidly tested than the Stevens Patent Watch. They are in the hands of railroad men, miners, millers, civil engineers, and others whose requirements are most extacting under the most unfavorable circumstances.

The Atlanta Watch gives perfect satisfaction, and are now preferred over all others, where accuracy and reliability are desired.
